

RIPON SOCIETY & FRANKLIN CENTER HONOR THE “UNSUNG HEROES OF CAPITOL HILL” AT 13TH ANNUAL BIPARTISAN LUNCHEON

WASHINGTON, DC – The Ripon Society and The Franklin Center for Global Policy Exchange held their 13th annual bipartisan luncheon honoring the Operations Directors and Schedulers in the U.S. House of Representatives and the U.S. Senate this past Friday. These staff members, as described by Ripon and Franklin President & CEO Jim Conzelman, “play an indispensable role in ensuring the smooth functioning of Congress.”

“Every day, despite countless requests and an ever-changing agenda, the Schedulers and Executive Assistants in the House and Senate make the impossible happen,” Conzelman shared in his opening remarks. “This marks the 13th year we’ve gathered to honor this hardworking group of Congressional staff members, whom we refer to as the ‘Unsung Heroes of Capitol Hill.’

“Your work often goes unappreciated, but it has not gone unnoticed. Both Congress and the nation are better because of everything you do. You are integral to keeping Congress running and the democratic process alive, and we owe you our deepest gratitude.”

The luncheon, which was attended by more than 90 Operations Directors and Schedulers, featured remarks from Rep. Larry Bucshon (R-IN-08), who serves as House co-chair of The Ripon Society. In his address, Bucshon shared how his own Operations Directors have supported him throughout his time on Capitol Hill.

Following Bucshon’s remarks, Conzelman followed another tradition of the annual luncheon – naming the top Operations Directors and Schedulers as selected by members of The Ripon Society and Franklin Center.

“Every year we do this,” Conzelman said, “and every year the responses are so overwhelming that we just cannot keep the list to 10 – and this year is no exception. The individuals here today from both sides of the aisle were nominated because of their steadfast commitment and dedication to public service. So, it is now my honor to recognize the ‘Top 20 of 2024!’”
